

HOUSE ADOPTION OF REPEAL ACT MONDAY LIKELY

Speaker Garner States the Outlook For Move
Is Favorable

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Apparently burying their conflicting views on prohibition for the present, a majority of the House today appeared ready for a vote on outright repeal Monday.

Defections threatened by some southern Democrats seemed to be on the wane and predictions by Republican wet leaders that more than a hundred votes would be delivered by them for Speaker Garner's proposal apparently enhanced the outlook for its adoption.

The whole question will be dumped into the Judiciary committee's meeting Friday. At a conference with the Vice President-elect, Chairman Sumners agreed to take charge of the resolution on the floor Monday—the opening day of Congress—if so directed by that group.

To Hold No Hearings

No hearings are to be held, but within the committee a drive is being made to side-track the provision for submission of the resolution to state conventions and substitute for ratification by said legislatures.

Sumners, a Texas Democrat, Representative Dyer of Missouri, ranking Republican, and Celler (D., N. Y.) maintain submission to the legislatures is more practicable.

Speaker Garner, nevertheless, is standing by his position that the Democratic and Republican national platforms call for ratification by the convention system.

Meanwhile, the wet and dry make-up of the Judiciary committee is being studied by members in an effort to determine whether it will report the measure favorably. If it doesn't Garner, who is determined to press for early action, will ask Representative Rainey of Illinois, the party leader, to offer it from the floor.

Poli Of Committee

Last spring, when there were 23 members, it rejected the Beck-Linthicum submission proposal 14 to 9.

Since then the group has been decreased through the death of Representative St. George Tucker (D., Va.) who favored repeal. And several have shifted their views. At the present there are 12 Democrats and the Republicans. Of the total, ten were not returned to the new Congress.

On the basis of a recent poll, were reported favoring repeal, two for submission, seven against repeal, and three doubtful. A majority is necessary to report a measure.

Adoption Likely

Speaker Garner today at a press conference said indications were more favorable for the House to adopt the Democratic repeal proposal Monday.

Although the Vice President-elect declined to predict adoption of the measure, he said that information from Representative Milligan of Missouri, the Assistant Democratic whip, show a swing among the Democrats for it.

Garner said he was "pretty certain" he will have a vote Monday. "The gentlemen who talked about postponing action have about decided that the vote might as well come Monday, because they are going to have to vote on it sometime," the Speaker went on, adding that he had "some definite information of a swing" for the resolution.

As to whether southern Democrats would support repeal, Garner said "quite a number are going to vote for resubmission who will support prohibition in their own states," and "that appears to me to be consistent."

Garner said he had not seen enough of the members to definitely ascertain whether the repeal resolution would be adopted.

Dean Of Carthage College Is Dead

Carthage, Ill., Nov. 30—(AP)—Dr. William Kuhns Hill, 72, noted Professor of Chemistry and Dean of Carthage College, died suddenly this morning from stroke of paralysis which came upon him in his class room. Dr. Hill had previously appeared to be in fairly good health.

Dr. Hill came to Carthage in 1883 and in 1887 married Miss Kate Griffith. He was for a short time connected with the Carthage public schools, but for 35 years has been head of the chemistry department at Carthage College.

Britain Is Sending New Note On Debts

London, Nov. 30—(AP)—Great Britain is sending a note to Washington today in reply to the American note refusing postponement of the $95,550,000 debt installment due Dec. 15. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons this afternoon.

The Cabinet finished writing it at a two-hour session this morning and it will be published here and at Washington in a day or so.

Mr. Chamberlain said there was no truth in reports that $3,000,000 in bar gold is being shipped to the United States in connection with the debt.

A rose bush planted by Emperor Charlesagne 1000 years ago is still flourishing at Hildesheim, Germany.

Music Critics In Lather Over Promising Singer

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—The music critics were in a lather of laudation today over the debut of a promising new singer—Mr. Alfred E. Smith of the brown derby Smiths.

Mr. Smith gave his singing voice the air for the first time publicly late yesterday at the weekly community sing-a-benefit affair. He said his participation was "just a happy thought that dawned on me."

"If Signor Alfredo Smet," as one critic in a swoon of excitement called him, sailed right up to a challenging D without shifting gears, and his voice rose above those of the 600 others who had joined in the chorus.

The critics thought it was great. Even headline writers became ecstatic and called him "The Happy Warbler."

One customer said:

"He took that 'D' like he took Massachusetts in 1928."

Herr Smith presented a limited repertoire from some of the early musical hall composers. His "wow" number which spilled the critics out of their seats was "The Side-walks of New York." He seemed to put everything he had into it. As the reporter for the Times put it:

"The Nightingale of Oliver Street threw into his work all he had in voice, spirit and body—especially the last mentioned. He kept time with his head and his hands. * * * When he wanted volume he bent over, stopped down and then jumped like a cheer leader. It was a good idea. He got volume."

An unfortunate phase of the affair was the failure of the critics to agree on the range of the artist's voice. The Times called him a "promising tenor." The Herald-Tribune referred to him as the "brown derby baritone."

Critics on other papers had not quite made up their minds.

DRY LEADERS MEET TO PLAN BIG CAMPAIGN

Gather In Capital To Fight Repeal Of Dry Amendment

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Leaders of outstanding organizations favoring retention of prohibition met here today to outline battle strategy against repeal or modification.

A complete program not only to combat those favoring a change in dry laws, but to renew vigorously a national educational campaign against drinking was ready for consideration.

It was first discussed at a recent informal session of representatives of dry organizations, and was formulated mainly through the efforts of the Anti-Saloon League, the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the International Reform Federation.

Prohibition leaders have taken the attitude that the presidential election was not a popular verdict on the prohibition issue and that while the presidential candidates were bound by their party platform, Congressmen and Senators were not and in voting must be guided by promises to their constituents.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL TO ALLOW COOK CO. BONDS

Emergency Overcomes
Emmerson's Desire
For Referendum

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 30—(AP)—Governor Louis L. Emmerson today signed the $17,000,000 Cook county non-referendum bond issue bill, the second of the three bills passed by the special session for unemployment relief.

Only an emergency such as exists at present could have led him to sign a non-reference bond bill the Governor said. His statement was as follows:

"It is my deep conviction that authority to issue bonds to be retired from a direct property tax without first submitting the question of issuing such bonds to a referendum, should not be granted. I have consistently refused to approve such measures. Only a grave situation requiring immediate action could cause me to disregard this conviction. Such a situation exists in Cook county today. Immediate provision must be made for supplying the necessities of life to hundreds of thousands of unemployed persons. The officials of Cook county and of the city of Chicago, and the legislature have agreed upon the county bond issue as the only feasible means for immediate relief. To require the question of issuing these bonds to be put to a referendum would mean weeks of delay and would entail expenditure of thousands of dollars for a special election."

"Therefore I have approved House bill No. 51 of the fourth special session which will enable Cook county to issue bonds immediately and provide the necessities of life for the unemployed and needy in Cook county."

Health Champions Lead Normal Lives

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—It is possible to have a good time and at the same time enjoy good health.

At least that's the experience of the new health champions of the United States, Ross Allen, 20, Salem, V. Va., and Miss Dorothy Eller, 16, Hill City, Minn.

"Sure, I dance and date, too," Ross admitted after his selection by the national 4-H Club as one of its two health champions.

"Of course, I have dates and go to parties just as all high school kids do," Miss Eller had to say for herself, "but," she added, "I'm always in at 10:30 on school nights and I always arise between 6 and 7 o'clock."

However, liquor has no place in either of their lives. And neither smokes.

"No," Ross responded when asked if he drank. "Not that I'd admit it if I did. A national health champion couldn't be expected to say 'beer made me what I am.'"

SUB-STATION FOR OFFICERS IN DEMENTTOWN

City Council Approves
New Building
On City Lot

A temporary structure to serve as a police sub-headquarters, is to be constructed on the city-owned lot on Depot avenue in Dementtown in response to a request from citizens of that section of the city. The closing of the railroad passenger station before 9 o'clock each evening resulted in the filing of the request with the city council, which was acted upon at the regular session last evening. The motion presented by Commissioner Brooks empowering Commissioner Herbert Nichols to proceed with the construction of a small temporary structure to serve as a sub-station was unanimously passed by the council.

The building will be about ten by twelve feet, equipped with a stove and telephone for the convenience of the officer who will be on duty each night in that section of the city. A "blinker" light is also to be installed at Depot avenue and Seventh street as a signal for the Dementtown officer.

Mayor Dixon called attention to the dilapidated condition of a building on the west side of Second avenue between First and Second streets, now occupied by a second hand store and reported that it would be vacated in the very near future. In the absence of Commissioner Brooks the mayor stated that a representative of the State Fire Marshal's office had inspected the structure yesterday and ordered that it be destroyed with 30 days, serving notice on the agents to that effect.

ANOTHER OPEN HOUSE DAY AT DIXON KITCHEN

Visitors Will Be Admitted Again Friday Afternoon

More than 500 people visited the Dixon Loyalty League Community Kitchen yesterday afternoon and evening during the open house hours, inspecting the equipment and method of operation. The success of the open house has brought repeated requests for another date being set aside, as many were unable to be present. The Kitchen committee announced today that for the convenience of those who were unable to be present yesterday, open house would be observed Friday of this week from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock in the evening.

Visitors at the Kitchen yesterday were very liberal with their cash donations after observing the manner in which the less fortunate of the city are provided with hot and wholesome food. Some brought parcels of food stuffs to be used at the Kitchen. The committee stated today that there was a pressing need for potatoes, onions, carrots, beans and rice and that donations of any of these supplies will be gratefully received.

The continued operation of the kitchen depends entirely upon public donations of either cash or produce and the number being fed is increasing daily. An even dozen more children in the grade schools were provided with hot dinner yesterday than on Monday, the first day that food was provided. The committee requests that any parent whose child needs this food not to feel reluctant in sending in a request. At the same time it is hoped that children not deserving, will not apply as it is expected that the need will be greater as the winter proceeds.

Citizens of Dixon are invited to visit the Kitchen between 2 and 8 o'clock Friday and inspect the equipment and learn of the program outlined for the feeding of the city's unfortunate. Additional information may be secured by calling Frank Chiverton at 157.

Would Create New State For Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—It would be Chicago, Illinois, not Chicago, Illinois, if a proposal made by Prof. Charles E. Merriam, of the University of Chicago ever comes to pass.

Illiana, Prof. Merriam told the Union League Club yesterday, would be a new state for the Chicago region. It would embrace parts of Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois.

The professor offered the creation of Illiana as one of the ways out of the "governmental jungle" in the metropolitan region.

His other suggestions follow:

"Consolidation of the governments in Chicago."

"Annexation of territory to Chicago."

"Federation of territory with Chicago."

"Consolidation of Chicago, Cook county and Sanitary District."

"Formation of metropolitan districts by Illinois statute or by interstate compact."

"Home rule."

STILL ANOTHER STILL

Fort Worth, Tex.—Moonshiners who operated a still on an island on Lake Worth tried to safeguard their operations by stretching string to detect snappers, across all the paths leading to the still. The string warnings were of no avail against the attack of Officers Walter Hale and O. P. Baker. These men rowed to the island, broke the strings and captured the 50-gallon still and one man.

VOTERS TOPPED THREE RECORDS ON NOVEMBER 8

Returns From General
Election Are Now
Nearly Complete

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Nearly complete returns from the November 8 elections show the American electorate topped three records in casting a total vote of at least 39,000,000 and giving Gov. Roosevelt 22,315,058, and President Hoover 15,575,474.

This huge total, with more than 30 states complete to date, is an increase of more than 2,000,000 over the previous high of 36,789,669 polled in the 1928 Hoover-Smith election; Roosevelt's vote is the most ever given a winning candidate, and Hoover's is a new top for a losing nominee.

Seven minor party candidates received 1,008,164 on the basis of returns from all but about one-twelfth of the nation's 119,643 voting precincts or districts—tripling the minor party balloting of four years ago.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist presidential candidate, kept pace with the total gain, his 908,812 being more than twice the 267,835 he got in 1928 and bringing him within probable reach of the Socialist record of 1920 when Eugene Debs polled 919,799.

William Z. Foster, Communist candidate, received 69,104 votes compared with his 48,288 four years ago when he ran as the Worker's Party candidate; while William D. Upshaw, Prohibition party nominee, polled 59,656 on the basis of 104,000 precincts to nearly double that party's vote of four years ago.

Other Minor Parties

Other minor party candidates received the following votes:

William H. (Coin) Harvey, Liberty Party, 45,045.

Verne L. Reynolds, Socialist-Labor, 21,858.

Jacob S. Coxey, Farmer-Labor, 6,465.

James R. Cox, Jobless-Liberal, 219.

The "Populist" ticket polled 4 votes in South Carolina to bring the total minor party vote to 1,008,164.

Roosevelt's plurality of 6,738,584 over Hoover compares with a plurality of 6,423,612 given Hoover over Smith in 1928 and the 7,338,513 Coolidge plurality over Davis in 1924 when a third party was in the field.

The figures to date indicate there will be no change in the electoral vote in the final returns from the totals recently compiled, which show Hoover won only six states—Connecticut, Delaware, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania—with a total electoral vote of 59 as against the other 42 states for Roosevelt with an electoral vote of 472.

Vote by States

The popular vote for Roosevelt and Hoover, by states, based on nearly complete returns, follows:

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS IS THOUGHT LIKELY

Believed Necessary To Enact Farm Relief
Legislation

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—With fresh difficulties piling up, enactment of farm relief measures at the short session of Congress may be limited to some emergency program such as price fixing and possibly mortgage refinancing.

As conferences on agricultural aid continued and Senate and House committees prepared to study the question, the conviction grew among Capitol Hill leaders today that any comprehensive program for either farm relief or fiscal readjustments must await a special session.

This President-elect Roosevelt and Democratic chiefs seek to avoid, but considering the controversial nature of the questions and the shortness of the Congress which opens Monday there appeared to be many obstacles militating against speedy enactment of permanent policies.

While House Democrats remained undecided on the farm relief should take, whether it should be based on the domestic allotment plan, the equalization fee or export deduction, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, was expected here today, fresh from conferences with Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Georgia, and primed for a drive for beer-revenue and aid to farmers at this session.

In this connection, congressional leaders carefully considered President Hoover's attitude, with word circulating in some republican circles that vetoes await both the farm relief measures the Democrats have in mind and beer proposal. Whether that is true or not, it is questionable if there are sufficient votes now to override such vetoes.

SAY FILM STAR GUARANTEED TO PAY FOR JESSEL

But Norma Talmadge
Denies Settling
For Divorce

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—Conflicting statements swirled today over whether Norma Talmadge, noted screen star, assisted George Jessel, Broadway comedian, in his $100,000 divorce settlement with his former wife, Florence Courtney.

Statements came to light in Supreme Court that Miss Talmadge, threatened with an alienation of affections suit by Miss Courtney, guaranteed the payment Jessel promised his wife before she obtained a Reno divorce last month. Miss Talmadge issued a denial.

The statements, filed in Supreme Court as the result of a dispute between two lawyers, said Miss Talmadge pledged securities at a bank that Jessel would pay. Miss Talmadge, at Los Angeles, denied guaranteeing any property settlement. She said that with Jessel's ability to earn $10,000 weekly it "seems ridiculous that any one should be asked to guarantee a paltry $100,000 property settlement."

"There has been no alienation of affections suit," she said. "I have no intention of marrying Jessel. I am still married to Joseph Schenck (Hollywood producer) and I have no intention of getting a divorce."

JEWELRY MAN'S TRUNK HIJACKED FROM TRUCKMAN

Thieves Sent Police
Directions For Finding Driver

Kansas City, Nov. 30—(AP)—"A map will show where truck driver is cuffed to tree and gagged, 300 feet from dirt road in dry gully."

A letter addressed to the Chief of Police and received today offered this clue to the whereabouts of Logan Beaver, driver of a truck from which a jewelryman's trunk containing $40,000 in diamonds was taken yesterday.

Beaver, however, was back in Kansas City where he had been kidnapped, long before the arrival of the letter. He was rescued late yesterday by a driver who happened to see him handcuffed to a tree on a road near Tonganoxie, Kansas.

The letter was printed by pencil on white paper, with it was part of a highway map of Kansas. A circle and an arrow marked the place where Beaver had been disposed of.

The letter, postmarked at Moline, Ill., bore two air mail stamps and a special delivery stamp.

Captain Thomas J. Higgins, the Chief of Detectives, surmised that the robbery was by Chicago men who mailed the letter at Moline, on the way home. He asked Chicago police to watch for the jewels, which were insured.

DETECTIVES IN QUANDRY; BOND
THEFT MYSTERY

Fiction Writers Would Not Give Dicks
Such Problem

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—Real life detectives were faced with a half million dollar mystery today with which no fiction writer would confront his imaginary sleuths on the ground that the plot was far too improbable.

It lacks—this mystery of the disappearance of five $100,000 Liberty bonds from a teller's cage of the Continental Bank, a stone's throw from the Stock Exchange—what the fictionists call verisimilitude.

In simpler words, the words no doubt of the puzzled detectives engaged in today's fevered hunt, it just couldn't happen, but it did happen just the same.

In full view of half a dozen tellers in other cages, of vice presidents at their polished desks, of customers, of two uniformed special policemen, someone reached into the cage assigned to Robert W. Drummond, a completely trusted teller, and with hook or guile stole five $100,000 Liberty bonds.

The fortune, in five pieces of paper, was delivered to Drummond at 12:30 P. M. yesterday. He knew another half million was coming shortly and he put the first batch on a ledge in his cage. The second batch came at 2 P. M. and when he looked for the first five they were gone.

All night detectives and bank employees searched every conceivable place in the building on the chance the bonds had been mislaid. They were not found. And 24 hours after Drummond first took possession of them they were still missing.

Bank officials didn't see how it could have happened. The detectives didn't see how it could have happened. Mystery writers would have rejected such a plot because nobody would believe it could have happened.

But the bonds were gone!

WAIT HOOVER'S
CONSOLIDATION
RECOMMENDATION

Economy Proposals To Be Given Congress
Early In Week

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Up on President Hoover's recommendations to Congress next week rests the course of new effort to reorganize the government in the interests of economy.

Chairman Cochran of House Expenditures committee, which handles reorganization legislation, said today he is "waiting to see what the President proposes."

"I understand he has asked Budget Director Reop for estimates as to what some consolidations would save," Cochran said. "Last session we gave him the power to consolidate. As soon as we see his message, my committee will meet and study his recommendations."

"The time to do any reorganizing is before Democrats get in the hundreds of useless offices and beg to be left there. We'll lose a little patronage if we do reorganize, but we'll save a lot of money."

Cochran said he doubted that his committee would approve a bill to consolidate the Army and Navy this session. A bill to that end was defeated by the House last winter.

There developed, too, from another front a drive for economy. The joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation was called to meet tomorrow.

When the committee does begin work it will be confronted by conflicting demands and claims from many directions, signalling what bids fair to be one of the most heated controversies in the short session.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Economy League, for instance, propose to reduce veterans benefits around $450,000,000; the American Legion wants to increase them about two and a half billion dollars in the next ten years.

Further Reduction
In Rail Pay Seen

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—A further reduction in railway wages upon expiration of the present agreement next February is expected by well informed Capitol circles by well informed Capitol circles by well informed Capitol circles.

Those in Washington who have kept in close touch with the situation say that operating costs and maintenance already have been cut to such an extent that the wage payroll remains as practically the only reducible item.

McAdoo insists on Wine Legalization

Los Angeles, Nov. 30—(AP)—In a letter to John N. Garner, Speaker of the House of Representatives, William Gibbs McAdoo, Democratic Senator-elect from California, declared "formidable opposition" will be raised to the proposed bill unless provision is made for the inclusion of light wines in the measure.

McAdoo said grape culture is the second largest agricultural industry in California and it "has suffered terribly for years and has now reached a point where it is almost in extremis." He said inclusion of light wines in the bill is essential to grape growers.

HEREFORD WON
CHAMPIONSHIP
AT STOCK SHOW

'Texas Special' Named
As Best Steer At International

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—The throne of cattledom—a purple-draped stall in the stockyards amphitheatre—was occupied today by a Hereford steer, and the judging arena was taken over by breeding farm animals at the International Livestock Show.

Minor figures are the breeders, virtually unnoticed in the light of their progeny's achievements, they begot kings and themselves remain princes. Several champion bulls in the cattle classes have been picked. They can go no further in garnering honors. Leaders of various types of cattle, sheep and swine do not meet in interbreed competition at the International.

There was only one coronation impending at the exposition—that of corn king. Princes are also reaped to be chosen in the corn sweepstakes. Announcements of the awards were expected today.

"Texas Special," 1200 pounds of steak dinner on the hoof, is the new Sultan of steers. He defeated representatives of its own breed for the championship, and in waddling into the elevated stall that's cattle's castle overthrew Aberdeen-Angus dynasty.

With the selection of corn king and princes today, the high points of the International's program will be over.

After that interest will focus on the answers to two questions they are.

How much will the champion steer bring at the auction? And what will be the results of the carcass judging?

In this event, judges will estimate the worth of a steer on the hoof, and later the wisdom of that estimate will be checked by slaughtering and dressing the animal.

In the carcass judging on the hoof, an Aberdeen-Angus entered by Harold Brown of Aledo, Ill., was adjudged grand champion, reserve going to F. M. Bontecou of Millbrook, N. Y. Tomorrow the cattle will be ribbed to determine how accurate the judging was regarding the quality of the meat.

Rockford Swine Win

Glenn & Glenn of Rockford took the major share of high awards in judging of Chester White breeding swine. They took first place in the following divisions: aged boar, senior yearling boar, junior yearling boar, junior boar, pig, young herd, bred by exhibitor; four swine product of same sow and showed grand and reserve champion boars and reserve champion sow.

J. Garrett Tolan of Farmingdale, Ill., won the championship among junior yearling heifers of the Aberdeen-Angus breeding class and second with his summer yearling heifer.

Bussing Brothers of Taylorville were second and third with their yearling ram, first and third with ram lamb, first with three ram lambs, yearling ewe, third with ewe lamb, second with three ewe lambs, first with get-of sire and second in flocks.

Expect Ford Will Get Well Rapidly

Detroit, Nov. 30—(AP)—A brief bulletin issued at 9 A. M. today by Henry Ford's physicians brought continued reassurance that the 69-year-old motor magnate is well on the way to recovery from the operation performed Saturday for hernia and removal of his appendix.

"Mr. Ford slept calmly all night. His temperature is 98.4, pulse 72, respiration 20," said the bulletin, which was signed by Drs. Roy D. McClure and Frank J. Sladen of Ford hospital.

Mr. Ford's recovery from the emergency operation has been so rapid that his friends expect he will be able to leave the hospital not later than Dec. 10.

U. S. ARMY HELD
INADEQUATE BY
CHIEF OF STAFF

Gen. MacArthur Makes
Annual Report On The Military

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Terminating America's preparatory program for land defense far from adequate, General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, advocates increasing the regular army to 14,000 officers and 165,000 enlisted men as soon as the government's Treasury permits.

In his annual report made public today, General MacArthur cites both the far eastern situation and European disarmament difficulties as reasons for avoiding any further reductions in American military forces.

The "untrustworthiness of all treaties as complete safeguards of international peace," he says, was emphasized again by the Sino-Japanese conflict in Shanghai last winter and "gave rise to a feeling of apprehension among portions of our population and was reflected in expressions of anxious concern as to the adequacy of our defense structure."

Turning to Europe and the disarmament conference, the Chief of Staff says:

"Unquestionably there has crystallized among important elements of our citizenry a strong sentiment in opposition to further weakening of American military strength unless accompanied by sweeping and drastic cuts in the armies of other nations."

On June 30 of this year, the Army's strength was 12,180 officers and 119,538 men—a strength reduced by economy below the safety point, MacArthur says, comparing it with the National Defense Act's provision for approximately 18,000 officers and 280,000 men and with the strength of other powers, showing the American forces to be the smallest per 1,000 population.

FIVE POWER PARLEY

Paris, Nov. 30—(AP)—An agreement for reduction of armaments on principles formulated by Norman Davis, the American representative, is the main object of a five-power conference to be held at Geneva at the end of this week, it was learned today.

If the parity is successful it will mean virtually that the great power will engage to bring about curtailment not only of war materials but also of man power.

Mr. Davis has been driving very quietly toward this tangible goal in his conversations with the German, Italian and British representatives at Geneva and with Premier Herriot here.

Apparently he decided that the only way to get quick results is to remove from disarmament discussions such dangerous political matters as that of security against aggression and that of equality in armaments.

The indications are that he has succeeded in negotiations a sort of truce in the discussion of these matters.

Although this week's meeting if it succeeds, may mean only slight reductions, plans already are under way.

Knitted Ensembles Score High In Style

Knitted ensembles are flattering and stunning this winter, especially when they are made-to-order for their wearers and fit perfectly.

The four-piece ensemble (left figure) in rich fuchsia tones has many points of interest. The alpaca knitted frock has full puffed sleeves embroidered in gorgeous colors in alpaca wool. There is a little cape jacket and a jaunty little walking hat, with a bit of wool trim. Slenderizing and swanky is the brown and beige alpaca wool knitted outfit (right figure), the frock being made in a suspender style, with a scarf made of the checked weave of the blouse and the jacket fashioned of the brown of the skirt. The hat is brown, with a touch of beige yarn for a banding.

And from 75 contestants, representing 41 states in this revue, one of the big events of the annual national Congress of Boys and Girls 4-H clubs, blonde 19-year-old Mildred Startup of Silver City, Kan., was awarded the grand championship for her light woolen blue suit.

This double-breasted two-piece suit, which had a blouse and scarf of a figured light weight blue tweed, was also judged first in the tailored wool class. She wore with it a narrow brimmed sport hat and carried dark blue gloves and bag. Her entire outfit, including shoes and underwear, totaled $19.45.

For $4.62 15-year-old Margaret Franklin of Leesville, La., got together a costume, including shoes and underwear, that won first place in the cotton or linen school dress group.

Mary Louise Chambers, 15, of Manassas, Va., winner of the first place in the semi-tailored silk or rayon dress class, was an advance fashion plate for Palm Beach in her white silk corduroy sleeveless sport frock with its waist length jacket. Her outfit cost $22.69.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

TROOP 89 HAD HIKE

One of the best hiking parties ever attempted by Boy Scout troop No. 89 took place last evening during the regular meeting. Twenty-one Scouts of the troop of 23 members were present for the addition of the new members. After the opening ceremony and troop business had been transacted, the troop marched to the city limits where a camp fire was provided in an abandoned quarry. In waiting for the fire to become a bed of coals the scouts sang Scout songs after which a marshmallow roast was enjoyed. The Scouts marched back to the Christian church where the closing ceremony took place.

publican National Committee, is destined to be succeeded and a wholesale reorganization of national headquarters is planned. Into the deliberations of party chiefs has been thrust a demand by Senator Johnson of California, who bolted the Hoover ticket to support Governor Roosevelt, for a "new deal" within the ranks.

Hoover Titular Head

President Hoover, though defeated, is the titular leader in the minds of many Republicans on Capitol Hill. He already has called on the party to look ahead and is expected to aid in the reorganization. However, the old guard of the party as well as the independents who deserted the President in the campaign, are, for the most part, not taking Mr. Hoover into account in the new set up.

How far the old party regulars who fought determinedly against Hoover's nomination in 1928 and the independents who refused his leadership in 1932 can act together is a question. Senator Johnson did not think in terms of personalities in his "new deal" demand, talking rather on party principles.

Opinion Divided

There is a division of opinion in Republican circles whether President Hoover has an ambition for a second term. Certain it is that regardless of a reorganization there will be many of Mr. Hoover's loyal lieutenants in key positions on the National Committee.

The names of Vice President Curtis and Senators Mcnes of New Hampshire and Watson of Indiana most frequently are heard in the discussion of leaders of the reorganization movement. All leave office on March 4 by virtue of defeats on November 8.

TOUGH ON TIRES

Chicago. — Chicago motorists must worry about more than bullets if they wish to keep their tires whole. The "puncture vine" which is a native of the Mediterranean countries was somehow introduced into the western states and has found its way to Chicago. The tack-like thorns of the puncture vine point up regardless of the position of the burr and their fondness for growing beside a road make it especially bad for motorists.

A LOGICAL DEDUCTION

Portland, Ore. — A gallon of pickled pigs feet, 15 pounds of pretzels and a gallon of dill pickles should give anyone the stomach ache. For that reason, Alfred Schaefer, manager of the Johnson Cider Mill, from where these articles were stolen, figures the police should look for a man with a terrible pain in the stomach.

WHEN WAR DEBTS WALK THE PLANK.

During the campaign the Democratic platform won praise because it was short and easy to read, and there was no mistaking its meaning. Its planks were things that the most hurried voter could digest; and one of the most clear and digestible was the following:

"We oppose cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations."

It is rapidly becoming evident that the section of the platform is going to be tested pretty strenuously before the newly elected candidates even take office.

The plank is perfectly clear and straightforward. No one could possibly misunderstand what it says.

At the same time, it is becoming a little bit clearer every day that the war debts are not, any longer, collectible obligations.

No longer is it a question whether or not we shall be paid in full. It is hardly a question, even whether we shall collect 10 cents on the dollar or 20 cents.

The chief question now is whether we shall accept the loss gracefully and take it as an inevitable part of the post-war readjustments which are still going on, or whether we shall have to have it rammed down our throats.

That being the case, what happens to the Democratic platform plank—the statement which, according to political theory, will form the guiding star for the policy-makers of the new administration?

Much as one hates to admit it, it seems very probable that this plank will be gently but thoroughly forgotten. It will be forgotten because these are things else that can be done with it. You can oppose cancellation of a debt with your whole soul, but when you simply haven't got a Chinaman's chance of collecting that debt you might just as well lock your opposition up in a quiet room somewhere and let it starve.

Terseness and clearness in a political platform are desirable. But a straightforward recognition of the political realities is even better.

CHINA—POTENTIAL "DYNAMITE."

Census figures just made public by the Chinese government reveal the fact that the sprawling, somnolent nation has today more than 470,000,000 inhabitants.

That figure, startling enough from its sheer size—it represents a population more than three times as large as that of the United States—becomes deeply significant when you stop to think about it a little.

It stands for possibly the largest single homogenous group of people on earth. No other nation enrolls such numbers under its banner; no other has such tremendous, overwhelming man-power.

Today, of course, the Chinese government is one of the world's weakest. It has been for a century and more. The early English, Dutch, Portuguese and French adventurers who sailed to the Orient were not long in discovering that they could deal about as they pleased with the Chinese empire. Their governments at home presently woke up to this fact and started grabbing off such ports as looked good to them and setting up such special privileges as they pleased.

They could do this and get away with it because China was not able to put up a decent battle. The land has no military tradition. The soldier is looked upon as the lowest rank in society. The country sprawls too loosely. Any small, compact and well-equipped army can do about as it pleases with the Chinese.

The climax of all of this, of course, is the present Japanese adventure in Manchuria. China has protested to high heaven—but of her own efforts she has not been able to make the invaders yield an inch of territory.

When you review all of these well-known facts and then stop to consider that 470,000,000 population figure, you are apt to get a shock.

Can that many people be kept permanently in a position of inferiority? Can a nation that large be permanently the prey of far smaller but more aggressive nations? Isn't it inevitable that aggression, sooner or later, will provoke such a nation to a violent explosion—and couldn't such an explosion very easily be the most dreadful thing of its kind the world has even seen?

If your three little islands are not large enough to accommodate the Japanese population, then Japan should devise other means of solution. Why not try birth control?—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, Japanese scholar and retired war lord, in message to Emperor of Japan.

Our difficulties are sometimes caused by the superpatriots, who have such a mistaken idea of patriotism that they think it conflicts with internationalism—Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard College.

Japan always has been and still is one of the most loyal supporters of the League of Nations.—Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese representative of the Council of the League of Nations.

We must eliminate the possibility of brutal aggression through short-term non-professional armies.—Joseph Paul-Boncour, author of the French arms plan.

The happy Tines all gazed down at Weeland. Goodness, what a town! The houses were real little ones, but cute as they could be. Then to the tot we Duncy said, "Say that looks dandy. Go ahead and lead us to the village. There must be a lot to see."

"All right," replied the tot, "I'll take you there, and like as not you all will get a welcome that you've never had before."

"Now, kindly do just as I say. Then nothing will stand in your way of having one grand time with all the things that are in store."

Then down the long hill they all went and Scouty cried, "We're pleasure bent. I know I'm going to love the town of Weeland. It's so small."

"We'll seem like giants, walking round. What will the tots do when they've found that they are having visitors? It may not please at all."

"Oh, I'll explain that you are kind and won't destroy the things you find," exclaimed the friendly tot, "I'm sure we'll all have fun."

And then they reached the little town. The Tines stopped and looked around. Soon Coppy said, "It is the strangest place beneath the sun."

Another asked, "Who rules this place?" A smile spread on the tot's face and he replied, "A real kind king. Let's all call at his house."

"It isn't very far from here," And when the Tines drew near we Duncy said, "He's out! The place is quiet as a mouse."

The tot replied, "Oh, well, he may be sleeping. Who can tell?" "I'll soon find out," said Duncy. "I'll peek in on the king."

He picked the castle "way up high and then exclaimed, "Oh me! oh my! This is a disappointment, cause I cannot see a thing!"

(The Tines see the king's carriage in the next story.)

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Pat Hurley, one of the principal campaigners in the presidential drive, who waged such a "furious aerial campaign for the Hoover cause, set down for us recently some amusing incidents that befall him during those weeks.

"Twice," said Secretary Pat, "and I'll admit it—I got really scared. And both times it was while I was winging my way to St. Louis."

The first time a severe head wind made going impossible for the secretary's plane. He was forced to land in a cabbage patch until weather conditions were better. The second time was another forced landing near Trenton, Ill., at night.

"Cous (C. W. Cousland, his pilot) said we had to come down for gas," Hurley related his eyes twinkling and a broad grin on his face. "And down we came."

"We landed in an abandoned field just outside Trenton, not knowing exactly where we were. It wasn't long before we aroused a native and asked directions."

"This native proved himself to be not only a loquacious sort of chap, but also one of the shrewdest prophets I have ever known. We didn't tell him who we were, merely said that we were en route from Washington to St. Louis."

"The mention of Washington set him off. On our way into Trenton for gas he expressed himself on everything from President Hoover on down."

"President Hoover's got some good men in his cabinet," he said. He mentioned Secretary Adams, Secretary Stimson and a few others.

"But this man Hurley, secretary of war. It's not dignified for him to ride around the country in an airplane as he does. Then, too, something might happen."

"Why, just suppose he had been in that plane of yours tonight."

"Hurley said he let him talk on until they reached Trenton. He helped them get the gasoline and directed them to a hotel where they might spend the night. As they bade him good night, Hurley thanked him, gave him his card and disappeared."

"The next morning our friend was outside the hotel waiting for us. He looked a bit embarrassed, but I put him at his ease. I valued his criticism of me the night before too highly."

"Well, I hear from that old fellow all the time. He writes me

Wherever you find a section that not only believes in but has good roads, you will find a section that is always extending an invitation to the pleasure seeker, the city business man and the business farmer to use them.

Better highways through the country and better streets in the cities mean better business for all.

Good roads mean better transportation of products at a minimum cost.

Good roads mean a more rapid settlement of unsettled sections; they mean that the city men can have a home away from the noise and smoke of the city; that the farmer can have a better market and have the same pleasures and service that the city man has.

The problem of better streets and better roads should be first in the minds of all.

The progress of many sections demand ready facilities for dealing with the ever increasing traffic in the shape of new and better highways. Until this is done progress will be delayed.

DIXON BOWLERS TRIM ROCHELLE IN CLOSE MATCH

Had Margin Of Forty-Six Pins At End Of Three Games

The Rochelle Recreation bowling team lost a match series to the Dixon Recreation Sunday afternoon, the local team enjoying a slight 46 pin victory. Dixon carried a lead of 90 pins at the end of the first game, totaling 935, to 885 for Rochelle. The second game Dixon picked up an additional 12 pins to lead by 62 pins, at the close of the second, Dixon, 919, Rochelle, 907. The final stretch was a poor exhibition of bowling by both teams, Rochelle getting 851 on Dixon's 835, the locals winning out by the small margin of 46 pins.

High series went to a member of the Rochelle club, Halsey carrying this event with a fine count of 596, rolling games of 204-198-194. Ed Worley of the Dixon team landed high single game for the match with 212 his second game.

A return game with the Rochelle team will be staged at the Rochelle bowling parlors on Friday evening of this week, the match starting at 8:00.

Freepoint Dairy Here
The Freepoint Dairy bowling team will make its initial appearance on the Dixon alleys Saturday night of this week, when they will roll a match game with the Dixon Recreation. The match is booked for 8:00 P. M.

Ottawa Here Sunday
If plans are completed Ottawa is expected to roll a match series with the Rochelle team Sunday afternoon at 2:30 P. M. A match with a Sterling team is also booked for Sunday afternoon.

Foul Arguments Eliminated
If the device described in the dispatch from Schenectady, N. Y., quoted below proves feasible and workable, perhaps we shall have heard the last of the spirited bowlers' debates which have for years enlivened the ten-pin sport. That meek little black line has undoubtedly been the cause of countless sore throats in the bowling fraternity.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 18—A new use for the phototube, or the "electric eye," applied by engineers on a local bowling alley makes it impossible for bowlers to step on or over the foul line without being detected immediately. A small beam of light is focused across the alley, so close to the floor as to be intercepted by nothing but the player's toe, and this need slide across the foul line only a fraction of an inch to be detected and registered by a flashing red light. The throwing of the ball in no way interferes with the foul detector because of the speed with which the ball crosses the line.

A referee sitting on a stool must keep his eyes constantly set on the foul line to watch for violations under present arrangements. His decisions result in disputes as to whether a bowler's toe slipped over the line or not. The electric eye eliminates all possibilities of such arguments.

One Year Ago Today—George Gibson, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, was named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Tulane was heading the list as candidate for the annual Rose Bowl football game in California.

Five Years Ago Today—Tony Canzonero and Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino fighters, were set for a 10-round bout to be held in Madison Square Garden. Canzonero was installed as the favorite.

Ten Years Ago Today—Nebraska scored one of its few wins over Notre Dame, beating the famous "Fighting Irish" 14-6, before a crowd of 16,000 at Lincoln, Nebraska. Mike O'Dowd, St. Paul middleweight, beat Dave Rosenberg on a foul in a 15-round bout staged in Brooklyn. The foul came in the eighth round.

Kansas City Girl Is Real Wrestler

Topeka Kas., Nov. 30—(AP)—Just by way of showing what women can do in the family art of wrestling, Miss Barbara Ware of Kansas City last night tossed Tommy Roscoe of Omaha in six minutes with an arm scissor and an arm ar. She weighed 140 pounds and her opponent 130.

She demonstrated a number of holds before applying the combination which floored Roscoe.

SALE OF GOLF BALLS TO PAY RYDER CUPPERS

Professional Golfers Assn. Decided On Financing Team

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—A half million golf balls are going to send Uncle Sam's Ryder Cup team over to England in June for its biennial battle with the British.

Beset with financial worries, the Professional Golfers' Association of America was wondering what to do about it when it was suggested that a surplus of a half million balls remained and the pros sell them to give the profits to the Ryder Cup team.

So that's the financial rescue plan. The balls, all new and standard, will be sold by club professionals at a gross profit of one dollar a dozen. Half of the profit or 50 cents will be turned over to the P. G. A. for the team and the rest retained by the salesman. Approximately $25,000 is expected to be raised in that manner.

Selection of the 1932 team, which will play in the matches in England June 26 and 27 has developed into a real problem for the Americans because of erratic play by the "old guard" of the 19 men who were the 1931 team, which repelled the British at Scioto, Columbus, Ohio, only Captain Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen were regarded as sure repeaters. Olin Dutra, 1932 P. G. A. champion, also was a certain choice, leaving seven openings to be decided between now and the end of the winter tournament schedule. The captaincy is Hagen's for the asking.

The entire Ryder Cup team, barring illness, is expected to compete in the British Open to be played the week starting July 3.

MICHIGAN MAY BE PERMITTED TO PLAY TROJANS

Campaign Is Under Way To Suspend Rule Of Big Ten

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—A campaign to make it possible for Michigan to accept an invitation to meet Southern California in the annual Tournament of Roses football game January 2—which no one will admit having started—today appeared to be gaining real momentum.

The Trojans received and accepted the bid to represent the west coast, and it was unofficially indicated that the Wolverines, champions of the Western Conference, and undefeated or tied, would be their choice as opponents. This would depend upon whether a Big Ten rule forbidding post-season contests, could be altered or suspended for the occasion.

There were rumors that a secret telegraphic poll on the Big Ten faculty committee on athletics, which would make the final decision on the question, was underway. However, it was neither definitely affirmed nor denied. At the Michigan end, Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost was non-committal, but appeared hopeful that the Wolverines would be permitted to meet Southern California.

There was definite sentiment among Big Ten athletic men favoring the Michigan cause, only Wisconsin having been outspoken against altering the rule which had prevented post-season contests from 1920, when Ohio State was defeated by California, to 1931, when a series of charity contests were played.

Regardless of whether the poll has been taken, the question will come before the faculty committee at its meeting in Chicago December 3. It was indicated that Southern California would wait until then to learn of Michigan's chances of accepting an invitation.

Hoyt And Mitchell Released By Giants

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—Two veteran pitchers, Waite Hoyt and Clarence Mitchell, have been handed their unconditional releases by the New York Giants as part of Manager Bill Terry's clean-up campaign.

Hoyt, the "boy wonder" of the New York Yankees, moved from a decade ago, joined the Giants in the mid-season during the last campaign after he had been cast adrift by the Brooklyn Dodgers. He won five games and lost seven for the Giants, showing hardly a flash of the form that once made him one of the majors' most feared hurlers.

Mitchell, last of the major leagues' southpaw spitball pitchers, served as a coach for the Giants' hurling staff last season.

Between them Hoyt and Mitchell had accounted for 319 victories against 274 defeats in the major leagues. Hoyt won 196 and lost 141; Mitchell's record showed 123 victories and 133 defeats.

Chicago Rotarians Give Stag Clock

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—In the home of Amos Alonzo Stagg today hung an electric "banjo" clock bearing the inscription: "To Amos Alonzo Stagg, a great leader of youth and exemplar of character."

It was presented to Stagg, who will retire as Director of Athletics at the University of Chicago next June, by the Chicago Rotary Club.

Grid Star Takes Life Team-mate

For three years Yale's football opponents were warned: "Watch Barres!" This year the Yale team watched him. But it was on the eve of the Yale-Harvard game, and Herster Barres, former star athlete, was married to Dorothy Marshall Johnson of Boston and Pinehurst, N. C., with the entire Yale football team and coaching staff in attendance. The couple are shown above shortly after the ceremony.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
An analysis of the motions that an All-America football team picker goes through probably would be more interesting than the team itself. Geography, of course, is the dominating idea.

This writer would as soon have the Purdue team of 1932. We would back the Purdue team against any ball club in the country—except the Green Bay Packers. (This is not being written by a graduate of Purdue.)

Yet it is obviously impossible, in selecting an All-American team, to name an entire team. There has to be some swivel-hipped gent from California, a guy from down south, a dude from the east and some ball totter from the middle-west. Otherwise the team runs for Mr. Sweeney.

LOOKING BACK—
The Notre Dame team of 1930 was one of the greatest teams of all time. It was a perfectly coordinated unit. It had blocking, ball carrying and thinking qualities that excelled. No team in the country could have beaten that little body of willful men from South Bend that year.

The Notre Dame line was a great line—as good a line as any coach could ask for. The same could be said—and was said—of the backfield. Yet of that splendid team, only two men were chosen for All-America honors, Schwartz and Carideo.

WHO'S BEST?—
For the tackle positions different selectors picked these men: Sington, Alabama; Rhea, Nebraska; Hein, Washington State; Edwards, Chicago.

ARMY'S MENTORS SING BLUES FOR NAVY'S PLEASURE

Borrow A Motif From Hunk Anderson's New Symphony

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—Taking a leaf from Notre Dame's book, Army's football coaches are singing the blues this week.

Notre Dame, it will be recalled, came to town just about a week ago, weeping copiously because most of her stars were suffering from influenza or hobbling around with injuries.

"We hope to hold Army to three touchdowns," said Coach Hunk Anderson between sobs.

What the Ramblers did to Army a few days later now is history. Their cripples smashed the Cadet line to pieces, their influenza-ridden backs dashed madly through the Army line or around the ends as if they'd never heard of the word. When it was all over there was three touchdowns difference between the two teams but Notre Dame was not the loser.

Now it's Army's turn. With the Navy game four days away, Cadet coaches point to an injured list that includes Ken Fields, Felix Vidal, Tom Kilday, Pete Kopesak, Lincoln, and a few more.

Under Doctor's Care
Fields and Kilday both reported for practice yesterday but the other three still were under the care of the team physician. Even should they be able to play against the Tars at Philadelphia Saturday, Army coaches said, they would be unfamiliar with the new plays developed just for the service duel.

A frozen practice field and a biting cold cut sharply into Army's contemplated workout yesterday and most of the afternoon was spent in drilling the kickers and passers.

Navy went through only a brief practice, the varsity working against a "B" squad equipped with Army plays. Coach "Rip" Miller has an imposing casualty list of his own but most of Navy's cripples participated in the workout. Clark and Chung-Hoon alternated at right halfback while Erick and Campbell worked the fullback post in shift.

The only change in the lineup sent Dave Miller of Royal Oak, Mich., to an end position in place of Ralph Pray but there was no indication that the shift was permanent.

PROSPECTS FOR GOOD CAGE TEAM AT HIGH SCHOOL

Coach Sharpe Has Cut Squad To Thirty-five Players

By DON HILLIKER

Coach L. E. Sharpe has the Dixon high school basketball squad trimmed to thirty-five and expects to drop a few more before the expiration of the week. Monday the football tugs were turned in and basketball entered the limelight. Sixteen members of the grid squad are now working out on the hardwood. The other nineteen have a lump of three weeks' intensive drill on the latest additions.

The prospects for the 1932-33 season are the most promising in years. This outlook, gathered from the early sessions, is the basis for hopes of a successful cage team at the high school. Basketball in Dixon has been on the wane the past few winters but interest would be revived if a winning prep five was developed. Fans are pulling for Sharpe and his boys to put this sport back on its feet in local circles.

Ten conference games and four non-league affairs compose the 32-33 schedule. The opener will be played Friday, December 16, with Polo making its first local appearance since 1927. Before the holidays Dixon has a North Central game when Mendota plays here on December 23. Action is then delayed until January 5 when the Belvidere trip is made. The following week-ends will see the cagers playing through a tough eleven games before the Illinois state district tournament.

Seven former heavyweight players are ready for play. This group includes Lyle Bellows and Francis Henry, forwards, Lyle Fordham, center, Kenneth Hasselberg, Leroy Cook, Paul Potts and Curtis Strong, guards.

Last year's scrappy second-string also sends seven of its letterwinners. Robert Underwood and W. Flamingam, forwards, Louis Salzman, center, Joe Beech, F. Kennedy, Paul Nicolosi and E. Flanagan, guards, are included.

Added to the above is a freshman set of eight. The best fresh group to enter school halls from Coach Roundy's All-Star grade school squad of 1931-32, champions of the Sterling V. M. C. A. tournament, Robert Krug, Robert Evans, Richard Reese, Arthur Kline, Leslie Marshall, Richard Durkes, Chester Zalecki and Louis Schumm make up the first year aspirants.

The remainder of the squad includes Howard Brown, Gilbert Frase, Elmer Tappertier, Howard Cinnamon, Edward Grove, James Ramsey, Daniel Fane, Clifford Jansten, A. Kennedy, Edward Trotter, Walter Minneman, Howard Quick and James Withers.

The unheralded work of the managers' positions is under the supervision of Kenneth Barnhart and Herbert Cooper.

Daily scrimmages are now in order and the boys are hard at it to make amends for the disastrous records of the past three years.

Cleveland Pro Is Winner Of Miami

Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 30—(AP)—Denny Shute, 28-year-old professional from Cleveland has captured the winner's crown—in this instance worth $2,500—of the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament by virtue of a 72-hole score of 291 that withstood the challenge of some of the nation's foremost golfers.

John Revolta, 21-year-old Me-nominee, Mich. professional, was second with a 292. He won $1,250. Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del. was third taking a 293 and winning $1,000. Paul Runyan of Westchester, N. Y., with a 294, was fourth, worth $750.

Gene Sarazen, United States and British open champion; Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio; Joe Kirkwood, Chicago and Al Watrous of Chicago all above 295, divided lesser purses.

A BOOK A DAY

VICTIMS SAVED HIM THE BOTHER OF KILLING THEM

Francis lies is an Englishman who writes murder stories that are different. He hardly writes mysteries at all; his tales seem rather to be studies in murder, with the murderer's identity and viewpoint always kept before the reader's eye.

His newest offering is "Before the Fact," and it is highly readable.

It tells about a likeable but irresponsible young Englishman who takes to removing from this earthly sphere such people as are apt, on their death, to leave him money; and he does it, not by killing them himself, but by inducing them to do things which he knows will cause them to die of more or less natural causes.

The story is nicely constructed, and it works up to a really rightening bit of suspense at the very end. Published by Doubleday, Doran and Co., it sells for $2.

"About the Murder of the Circus Queen" is another of Anthony Abbott's mysteries and why it should have been published at all is the most mysterious thing about it, as far as I'm concerned. Humorous and heavy-footed, it sounds almost like a burlesque on the conventional detective yarn, and getting to the end of it is a monotonous task.

In case you're interested, it has to do with a circus lady who gets murdered while doing acrobatic stunts.

GREETING FOR CHRISTMAS ARE UNUSUALLY FINE

Cards Definitely Indicate New Things Under The Sun

The 1932 Christmas cards, of which The Telegraph has an unusually complete and attractive line, definitely espouse the creed of "something new under the sun". Color, size and designs all are very cleverly allied to convey the familiar Yuletide message with a new distinction.

A new use of color strikingly characterizes the cards this year. Particularly in evidence is a rich new blue, deep and soft yet bright enough to combine effectively with gold or silver. One card, for instance, is framed in a three-inch border of blue spangled with gold and white stars and banded with a narrow bordering of silver. Another uses its blue as a background for a flock of white silhouetted birds swooping downward across a starry sky while white block letters proclaim "Peace on Earth."

Other new-comers to the realm of correct Christmas colors are a clear jade and a warm russet tone that is almost apricot. These are most frequently used for the solid color background of a card. Vivid purple is also smart as an occasional substitute for the traditional red.

The popular vogue of making your card a gift in itself is to a considerable extent responsible for the imposing size of many of the season's smartest cards. Obviously designed for letter framing, they are large enough to wish the recipient the merriest Christmas in history. Generous eight-by-ten proportions are a mere commonplace to these "gift cards," while some run to twelve-by-fourteen inches or even larger. Others, long and narrow, are admirably adapted to fit into a slender wall-panel or that difficult between-window space.

The 1932 designs show three outstanding groups, each with an individual appeal to contemporary interest.

"Depression" Cards
There may be a depression on, but Mr. and Mrs. and Miss America are not letting it keep them from exchanging Merry Christmas greetings. In fact the spirit of Yuletide sticks its tongue rudely at any economic stringency and proceeds to poke fun at hard times with some of the cleverest new cards on record.

For example, there are the famous "makeshift" cards. One is crudely printed in red on an ordinary paper bag of diminutive size. Another makes itself a booklet of wall-paper. Others are on wrapping-paper tied with twine instead of ribbon. Another folded deliberately askew remarks plaintively: "This is an awful-looking card, but times have been so dogged hard."

A second group of depression cards, more elaborate, appeal to the sense of humor with clever line-drawings and thumb-nail sketches, using, however, more elaborate treatment on parchment or heavy papers. One jolly example, headed "A Merry Christmas Dream," shows on the outside an amusing sketch of a somnolent gentleman under a much-patched quilt, while inside, illustrated by a series of some ten figures in appropriate poses, is the verse:

"I had a dream the other night
When everything was still,
I dreamed I gave each friend of mine,
A Thousand Dollar Bill!

Yes, I was handing out the stuff
To each good friend and true,
When, darn the luck—they woke me up—

Just as I came to you!
MERRY CHRISTMAS JUST THE SAME!

Cards of Victorian Inspiration
If you refuse to recognize the depression even enough to laugh at it and prefer to keep up with the Joneses even in Christmas card style, there is a wide variety of cards of Victorian and Edwardian inspiration, than which this year, paradoxical as it sounds, there is nothing newer in the field of fashion.

A gay bevy of maidens in the tight bodices and voluminous skirts the puff-sleeves and bustles of the era appear on cards which range all the way from a sedate design wishing "A Joyous Christmas," to lightly humorous poses such as the fashionably-clad damsel of the '90s who is "All A-bustle to wish you a Merry Christmas," or the panteletted maiden, who, from an accidental seat in a snow-drift, announces that she is "Just Slipping" in quietly to wish you a Merry Christmas.

The same Victorian influence, too, is responsible for a surprising return to popularity of those good old-fashioned Christmas card symbols—springs of holly. Holly of late years, it seems, has been just about the only thing that did not appear on the seasonal missives—at least not to any noticeable extent. But this year it comes into its own again. Only, of course, they do all sorts of different things with it. It forms an all-over conventionalized background to off-set a quaint wintry landscape. It is used to four-square the corners on a card, combined with mistletoe, another old time favorite. Two sprays indicated in silver outline and red on black balance a definitely modern cubist Christmas tree.

Cards of Modern Youth
At the other extreme from these designs reminiscent of a by-gone day are the Christmas cards in the gay cameraderie of modern youth. A pert miss is silhouetted in black with a gold typewriter and chair, busily picking out "now is the time to wish you a Merry Christmas." Another, smartly, up-to-date, goes, bundle-laden, about her shopping. An ingratiating youth in tip-tilted hat and soft-collar hals: "Till there fell! Merry Christmas." These and other informal greetings, however, uniformly express a genuine warmth and sincerity allied to the real spirit of the season. The flip, cynically humorous Christmas sentiments which crackled on the fore-runners of these cards in previous seasons are rarely seen this year.

More Room for Nation's Congressmen

Young America's fondness for sport is reflected in many of the "modern youth" cards. Ski-jumpers and football cheerleaders offer appropriate greetings. For the golf fan there are golf-stocking cards and deftly designed and worded booklets. The yachtsman and the horseman, the polo player and the radio enthusiast may all receive cards keyed to their individual hobbies. One generously proportioned card for the lover of winter sports shows a ski-jumper taking off in one corner while an ice-hockey player shoots a goal down the opposite side, and the lower corners, not to be outdone, display respectively a bob-sled team and a pair of gay tobogganists. A holy wreath in the center and an irregularly printed Merry Christmas complete the design.

And just by the way, speaking of "hobby" cards, there are an astonishing number which, with appropriate symbols, play on the words Christmas spirit and Christmas "spirits."

Cards with religious motifs appear this year in greater numbers and wider variety of design than for several seasons past.

Particularly in favor are the new silhouette or block treatments of the familiar subjects. The Three Wise Men, for instance, are depicted in gold as they pause under the spreading branches of a palm tree. A white card silhouettes three angels in blue against a golden bar of musical notes. A block print in delicate pastels on natural-colored parchment shows two youthful angels as they kneel with their lantern at the side of the Holy Babe.

Religious subjects are used for many of the very large cards for letter framing. There are exquisite color prints of the less familiar Madonnas such as the Madonna della Stella of Fra Filippo Lippi, the exquisite Madonna of Andrea del Sarto, and the Gloria in Excelsis Deo of Lorenzo di Credi. There are also pretentious cards showing stained-glass window designs in beautifully blended tones, and the ever-popular etchings of great cathedrals.

Animal Cards
A whole host of unexpected little animal friends are called into service this year to convey Christmas greetings that are somehow different. Dogs, of course, continue in favor, especially the friendly Scotty and the wire-hair, but they are markedly less numerous than on last year's cards. Instead you are apt to find a seal, placidly seated on a convenient ice-cake, balancing a Christmas star on his nose or even two frolicsome mice, cutting Merry Christmas with their skates as they skim over the ice.

Envelopes
Envelopes this year, after flamboyantly flaunting their gay-colored linings for several seasons past, have definitely gone in for smart simplicity. An occasional envelope for the more pretensions card may line itself with gold or silver or a solid color. Colored cards in the new shades may elect an envelope to match. Otherwise envelopes are most apt to be white or cream and unlined.

Historic Antecedents of Modern
The first Christmas card is generally credited to an Englishman, Sir Henry Cole, in 1846. This card was designed by John C. Horsley, an artist and a member of the Royal Academy. Within the past year, however, a still earlier German Christmas card has come to light in the United States which dates back to 1829. This card bears a steel engraving, hand colored, depicting a summer-house interior with an open door showing a landscape view beyond.

The sentiment, which is in German, has been freely translated to read: "Accept this little leaflet as a symbol of respect and cordiality; many happy returns of the day, which know so gladdens you; may every hour be filled with whatever delights your heart, and may satisfaction and comfort always shine out of your countenance."

The first Christmas cards to be produced in America were made by Louis Prang in 1874.

Etiquette of Greeting Cards
The important things about the correct Christmas card are first, the signature, and second, the method of address.

No Laughs—Laurels Part

Stan Laurel, the screen comic, wasn't so funny at home, so another Hollywood marriage is snagged on the rocks of incompatibility. "We couldn't laugh at the same things any more," was Laurel's explanation of their separation. Mrs. Laurel, former movie player, will sue for divorce and custody of their daughter, 5, with whom the couple is shown here.

are especially popular this year, as a variety of cards may thus be selected to fit each recipient. If you prefer to send all your cards alike, however, either printed or engraved signatures are equally acceptable, providing of course that the style of lettering in the signature matches exactly that of the card sentiment. Greetings and name in block letters of gold or silver or a vivid color are especially smart this year, or in white against a colored background.

Another smart, but expensive, innovation this year are "cards" which feature a real bronze plaque bearing the holiday message, with the design and lettering embossed. The plaque is mounted in the center of a folder.

The use of first names or even familiar diminutives is growing on cards designed for the immediate circle of friends and relatives. Younger married couples, even on cards for general sending, are apt to prefer a signature such as "Bill and Mary Grant" to the formal Mr. and Mrs. which is correct for older couples.

If the married business woman uses her maiden name at the office, she should write in her maiden name beneath her joint signature with her husband as Mr. and Mrs. unless she select separate cards for her business and her personal list. In writing the maiden name she omits the Miss.

The use of a photograph, an informal snapshot, or an easily identified silhouette, either with or without the name beneath, is a smart new way to give your cards the ultimate touch of signature individuality.

Sending cards to a household or to more than one member of a family is apt to be a problem. Strict etiquette would sponsor a card to the husband and wife and individual cards to other members of the household. In the case of a large family, however, it is quite correct to write the several names separately on a single envelope.

With the large envelopes of this year's vogue, this can easily be done without spoiling the appearance of the missive. It is not considered in the best form to address your envelope to the husband and wife and add the short cut "and family." If the card is to convey greetings to two or even three sisters, the address reads: "The Misses Jane and Elizabeth—or Jane, Elizabeth, and Margaret—Grant."

It is quite correct for a family in mourning to send out and receive their usual Christmas cards, unless the bereavement is very recent. A widow uses her first name, as Mary Grant, on cards for her immediate friends and relatives. On others she uses by preference her husband's name, signing herself Mrs. William Grant.

Cards to a business friend or acquaintance are sent to the place of business if the sender is unmarried or if the recipient is unmarried with the recipient's wife. Otherwise they are sent to the home address, addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Similarly in sending a card to a married woman—even if the husband is only a very slight acquaintance of the sender, the en-

Ogle Co. Farm Bureau Affairs

The association average for the month of November was 644 lbs. of milk and 23.1 lbs. of butterfat, with 353 cows on test from 21 herds. 72 of the 383 cows on test were dry. During the month 7 unprofitable cows were sold to the butcher. 51 cows each produced over 40 lbs. of fat.

The five highest producing herds were as follows:
Ralph Thomas, 17 cows, average production, 1004 lbs. milk, 36.2 lbs. butterfat.

Forrest Gillespie, 10 cows, average production, 1015 lbs. milk, 33.9 lbs. butterfat.

William Fritz, 14 cows, average production, 983 lbs. milk, 31.9 lbs. butterfat.

J. W. Hemingway, 12 cows, average production, 769 lbs. milk, 28.5 lbs. butterfat.

Rock River Farms, 78 cows, average production, 812 lbs. milk, 27.8 lbs. butterfat.

Due to the lack of money and credit some farmers are considering carrying their cows through the winter on farm grown feeds only, without the addition of purchased protein concentrates. Farm grown feeds should always form the bulk of the dairy ration, but a balanced ration still remains the basis of efficient milk production. Protein is the nutrient in feeds which is considered in balancing rations. Farm grown feeds are low in protein. A cow producing 46 pounds of milk a day should, in addition to legume hay and silage receive 12 pounds of a balanced ration of grain. If just corn and oats is used as the grain it will be necessary to feed 18 pounds in order to provide sufficient protein. One ton of soybean oil meal contains as much protein as 160 bushels of corn. A suggestion which would prove of double benefit is to sell the two or three lowest producing cows from the herd and with the money, purchase protein concentrates to balance the ration.

In one respect, the farmers are better off during this depression, than many thousands of city people. They have enough to eat. Farm families are using much more home grown food now than formerly. This is a wise and necessary practice. The place of dairy products should not be overlooked in this program. Milk and dairy products that can be made on the farm have a very high food value. A glass of milk sold on the market returns about three quarters of one cent. Taken as food it is much more valuable than food purchased in tin cans. Increased home consumption of milk would also have another favorable effect. If every farmer and member of a farm family would consume an extra glass of milk a day it would remove about 700 gallons of milk from the market daily (in Ogle County alone) or the product of more than 300 average cows.

By removing so much milk from the market the price would tend to go upward.

ACCUSES COMMISSION

Chicago, Nov. 29 —(AP)—Homer J. Byrd, member of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, in a resolution to the board called upon Gov. Emmerson to lead the state Commerce Commission in bringing about a reduction in gas, electric and telephone rates.

The resolution was presented to the Board yesterday by Byrd. It calls for a reduction in rates to conform to new living standards and charges the Commerce Commission with failure to protect the public against exorbitant rates.

SPINELESS BANDIT

Cincinnati, Ohio — Judges Otis R. Hess and Al L. Leubbers received a little practical experience in connection with jailing people recently. The two judges, along with six other people were trapped between the first and second floors of the City Hall when the elevator became "stuck." Traffic and Police Courts were held up for half an hour while an electrician frantically searched for the main trouble.
